MESSAGE

I am pleased to learn that Green (R)evolution, an initiative of International Centre for Culture & Education, Mumbai is sensitizing the effect of climate change and actions essential for preservation of our prized natural environment by channelizing the energy and dynamism of our youth.

Nature is a vast, dynamic whole comprising the millions of life forms, labeled as different species that have evolved over millennia on this planet Earth. Nature gives meaning to human existence. Each time a species goes extinct, the damage to nature is irreversibly. So is the knowledge of human existence, in both spatial and temporal dimensions. In this sense, as species disappear, the world gets poorer and so are its human inhabitants.

Through out the world, there is growing concern about the climate change and the associated impact on agricultural production, drinking water and the food security. In order to meet global challenges like these, it require action at the local level involving students, youth and communities and preparing them to meet the challenges that lie ahead. I am sanguine that Green (R)evolution Global Program will go a long way in protecting our treasured green environment.

I commend the members of the Green (R)evolution for their effort and wish them success in their endeavour.
